LOCAL AND PERSONAL

OWLS DEFEAT PEARSALL IN ARMISTICE DAY GAME.

A crowd of approximately 2000 people witnessed the Hondo Owls-Pearsall Mavericks high school grid battle on Barry Field in Hondo, Thursday afternoon, November 11th. The Owls won the game by a score of 16 to 0, the points being garnered by a field goal, and two touchdowns, with one placement kick for the extra point. By this win Hondo moves a step nearer to winning the East zone title in District 43-B.

In addition to some exciting football, the fans were treated to two sterling performances by the Pearsall High School and the Hondo High School pep squads.

A full account of the game will appear in our next week's issue.

The Owls will meet the Sabinal Yellowjackets next Friday afternoon, November 19, on Barry Field.

OFF WITH A RUNNING START.

The campaign to incorporate Hondo was definitely launched at last Wednesday night's meeting of the Dinner Club of the Hondo Chamber of Commerce.

In the absence of Chairman Barry and Secretary Crow, both of whom were absent on account of just recovering from recent operations for appendicitis, by request Dr. T. B. Knopp and F. X. Vance, Esq., officiated for these functionaries, and after the some twenty-four present had partaken of the dinner prepared for the occasion, the routine business of the evening was taken up in the usual order.

There being only perfunctory matters preceding it, the report of the committee on metes and bounds of the proposed municipality and petition for an election to incorporate Hondo were soon reached.

Frank X. Vance, Esq., read the petition which he had prepared for the committee and Judge H. E. Haass, who prepared the plat setting forth the metes and bounds of the proposed municipality explained the same. After some changes, intended to take certain sections of border roads out of the municipality and throw them back on the County for maintenance, the report was accepted by mutual acquiescence.

Following this disposal, Mr. Felix Batot was nominated by acclamation as the candidate for Mayor, and in a secret ballot, in which the names of several were considered, Dr. W. H. Smith and Mr. Henry Merriman were nominated as running mates on the ticket with Mr. Batot for City Commissioners.

The petition was then signed by nearly all present, and definitely launched on its circulation.

Among other things, the hour for the next meeting, Tuesday, December 7th, was moved from 7:30 up to 7:00 P. M., a resolution requesting the acting secretary to convey to the President and Secretary the sympathy of the Club in their recent afflictions was adopted, and the Club adjourned.

ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The dates of the Annual Red Cross Roll Call for membership is from Nov. 11 to Thanksgiving Day. During this time everyone who is interested in the great work of the Red Cross should support it with their membership. The usual membership donation is $1.00, however larger amounts are gratefully accepted.

In the great floods in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys last spring the Red Cross took immediate charge and brought order out of chaos. Likewise, in the terrible school explosion at New London, Texas, the Red Cross buried the dead and rendered other assistance to poor, grief-stricken families. Interesting accounts of the work of the Red Cross in these two terrible disasters are being sent to everyone who contributed to the special flood relief collection taken up last spring. Any person joining the Red Cross at this time may secure copies of these two booklets from Lawrence Brucks, at the postoffice, if they do not receive copies through the mail.

Mr. O. A. Fly is Roll Chairman for Medina County. He has appointed persons in different communities, to any of whom you may send your membership donation. At Castroville, Supt. W. N. Saathoff and Bernard FitzSimon; Devine, Mrs. R. E. Wilkinson and Mrs. R. R. Redus; D'Hanis, Herman Couser and J. P. Ephraim; LaCoste, John C. Biediger; Natalia, Mrs. Hilda Shoop; Hondo, donations may be left at Fly Drug Co., E. R. Leinweber Co., or the post-office. An official receipt, a Red Cross button and a Red Cross sticker for the window of your home or automobile, will be given each person at the time their donation is made. The Red Cross will be your friend in need if disaster ever strikes you. Join today, and join willingly.

AS TO INCORPORATION.

Dear Mr. Davis:
On August 16, 1937, I wrote an open letter to the Hondo Chamber of Commerce, which you were kind enough to publish in full.

The question was raised and still goes unanswered:
"I want those who are in favor of incorporation to go travelling and learn for your own good, what benefits, just WHAT incorporation has to offer, then come back and tell us WHAT incorporation does offer that HONDO DOES NOT NOW ENJOY; and if there is anything that is ADVANTAGEOUS and ENJOYABLE, then learn what it costs, weigh the advantages, IF ANY, against the added and enlarged costs, then those of us property owners in Hondo will be glad to listen."

Is there not a single person who can answer the above simple request to inform us Hondo-ites just WHAT Hondo is missing?

Mr. Vance's letter of August 28, besides attacking me personally, dealt in the theory of incorporation, the perfect state of incorporation, but missed the point: namely, what is there in towns like Crystal City, Sabinal, Nixon, Devine, Pearsall, Yoakum, Uvalde, KERVILLE, Eagle Pass, and any other incorporate town of similar size, that Hondo does NOT NOW have and enjoy, all without the city taxes of those "cities".

1. Do they have free police (watchmen) service?

2. Does the city furnish firemen or do the firemen volunteer services?

3. What percent has sanitary sewer? How much does the sanitary sewer cost each connection per month? Is it true or not that over 50% still are without sanitary sewer connection?

4. Hondo has some of the purest deep water in Texas at an extremely low rate. Where can incorporation help our water system?

5. Hondo is served by the same light and power companies as the incorporated towns at an equitable rate. Where can incorporation help the light and power company serving Hondo?

6. Hondo has as low residential gas rate as any place of equal size. Where can incorporation help the gas situation in Hondo?

7. Do the "cities" mentioned above operate their cities at very little expense, that is, what kind of mayor can you hire for no salary? What kind of city councilmen will brave the throes of a political life, the severity and the harshness of an election, the criticisms of his fellow-townsmen and friends, for NO SALARY? I do not want any one working for me without proper pay and compensation; do you?

8. Are the County Commissioners over-worked? or underpaid? Then from the way the position is sought in election, the honor must be fully compensatory. Etc., etc., etc.

Most respectfully,
J. FRANK JUNGMAN.

AS TO CONSISTENCY.

One must pay even for consistency—sometimes even to being steam-rollered!

But one who dabbles much in politics becomes immune even to the "rolling" process!

The managing editor of this paper did not vote in any of the procedures relating to the movement for incorporation at the Dinner Club meeting Tuesday night—not that we would expect any one from voting for what, and as often as he pleases, or that we have any objection to the gentlemen selected to bear the heat and burden of the campaign and endure the arduous tasks of pioneering the set-up of a municipal government from scratch when elected.

From available material, three men could not be selected who have had more experience in municipal government affairs than the gentlemen named, and the prospective Mayor has had several years' experience as President of—not a municipal but a county fair, and knows the burning heat of the spot-light.

Having taken the position from the beginning that you cannot have in one and the same organization a successful Chamber of Commerce, a commercial promotion organization, and a political propaganda club, partizan in a highly controversial issue, we could not consistently give acquiescence to the procedure.

Having approved the precedent set by Chairman Barry when he maneuvered the petition for a county health nurse out of being signed in open meeting, we did not choose to have a part in doing violence to that wholesome precedent in his absence by acting in a more violently controversial matter.

And having a repugnance for any thing that has the appearance of star chamber proceedings, we felt that a matter of so vital a change in the mode of life of every individual in Hondo should be arrived at in an open meeting, free for all, where a man would be free to participate without paying for a meal, and where every tax-payer would be on terms of equality whether willing to sit down and eat together or not.

Now that the three gentlemen, by accepting the nominations tendered them, become the official sponsors and spokesmen for this proposed change, perhaps they will make amends to the masses of Hondo to the extent of calling such a meeting and taking them into their confidence by telling them what amount of tax they propose to levy, how long they can keep it at the level fixed, for what and how they propose to spend it—and many of the myriad of other things expected to be achieved, from providing Hondo "the possibility of a sewer system" to—well, just ask the next fellow about his pet peeve or ambition for a job in the city's employment!

THE NEW EMERGENCY.

By Clayton Rand.

From the cross-roads the new emergency seems to be one of finding a cure for the remedies the last emergency inspired.

With the civilized world turned up side down people gravitate between the dangerous extremes of fascism and communism.

The safe middle-ground for civilization lies in America's particular kind of democracy, the key-stone of which is that FREEDOM which millions so soon forget to cherish.

America may be skating on thin ice, but she is safe as long as Uncle Sam keeps his shirt on and an independent press is unafraid to wear its pants anywhere at any time.

19TH ARMISTICE DAY FINDS THINNING RANKS.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Between tonight's civilian sunset and tomorrow's military taps 83 Americans now living will join an old comrade in death.

They are the World War veterans who 19 years ago on November 11 laid down their arms in armistice and who now, the veterans administration said, are dying at that daily rate.

Their comrade is that mute sentinel of the warrior dead—America's Unknown Soldier.

Many of the survivors are well and happy, but:

RENEWED INTEREST IN PROPOSED ROAD.

After a conference between Judge A. V. Pue of Banderita County, R. H. Ryan of Vanderpool, Wm. E. McIntosh of Utopia and J. P. CATTLE, estimated receipts 1,500, calves 2,500. Receipts included around 650 head of cattle and calves on through billing. Trading was fairly active on one of the heaviest runs this year. Early sales of calves and cows weak to 25c lower, other classes weak, tending lower. Trading was dull at the close with several lots of calves and a load of fed steers unsold.

Medium steers cashed at $6.00 to $6.25, few plain kinds down to $5.00. Most grass yearlings $5.50 and down.

Do you "fly all to pieces" when the children are noisy, or when the vegetables burn, or when the jelly won't "jell"? Some mothers are just naturally cranky. Some mothers are cross and impatient because they are nervous.

If you are a natural crank, DR. MILES NERVEINE won't do much for you. If you are irritable because your nerves are overtaxed, DR. MILES NERVEINE will do a lot for you.

Do you suffer from Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervous Irritability, Nervous Headache, or Nervous Indigestion? Do you worry over trifles, start at sudden noises? Overtaxed nerves will cause all these troubles, and DR. MILES NERVEINE will help you to relax those overtaxed nerves.

Why don't you give it a trial on our guarantee of satisfaction or your money back? Your druggist can tell you about DR. MILES NERVEINE. He has been selling it ever since he started clerking in a drug store. Dr. Miles Nerveine comes in two forms—Liquid and Effervescent Tablets. Both equally effective in quieting overtaxed nerves. Both sell for 25¢ and $1.00 depending on the size of the package.

Tax Collector L. E. Heath is in receipt of the following self-explanatory letter:

To the Tax Collectors of Texas:

The Department of Public Safety, Driver's License Division, will take over the issuance of operators' and chauffeurs' licenses on Monday, November 15, 1937, on and after which date no such licenses will be issued from your offices.

Saturday, November 13th, will be the last day on which valid operators' or chauffeurs' licenses may be issued by you.

On behalf of the Department of Public Safety I wish to sincerely thank every one of you and your deputies for the courteous consideration you have shown the Department during our nearly two years of association. Your thoughtfulness and willing cooperation have made this association so pleasurable that every member of the Department sincerely regrets the separation of our mutual duties.

Please keep in your possession all license blanks and other forms belonging to the Department of Public Safety until this material is requested of you by either an examiner of the Driver's License Division, or a member of the Texas Highway Patrol. LOCAL FSA SUPERVISOR GIVEN FDA WORK HERE.

Direction of farm debt adjustment work is now in the hands of the local staff of the Farm Security Administration, in place of an itinerant supervisor who visited the county once a month, it was announced by C. W. Westop, county supervisor. He will handle the work jointly with the volunteer debt adjustment committee of the county.

Farmers who need help with their debts, whether they are to borrow from the Farm Security Administration or not, are eligible for this help, the supervisor said, and should come to his office to make application for this service. The committee will function as it has in the past, and farmers may contact these committees at any time but are particularly invited to attend the monthly meeting held the first Wednesday of each month.

A small group of FDA specialists has been retained by the regional office for advisory work, and will spend a week at a time in each district to help with acute cases, and with cases involving a great amount of technical assistance. This service is also available to farm creditors who believe an arbitrator can help clear up delinquent indebtedness.

This group was set up by order of the President for the purpose of bringing financial advice to farm debtors and creditors, in an effort to help avoid so many foreclosures. "We are no more interested in helping the farmer who is in distress than we are the farm creditor," the supervisor explained. "This is not a movement to help farmers avoid honest debts, but an effort to help sincere farmers and creditors work out new terms whereby the farmer will not lose his working capital and yet satisfy the creditor. This help does not cost either party anything."

Rev. C. J. Bradley, a venerated and much loved Presbyterian preacher, arrived here Thursday from Buda on a visit to his brother, Dr. B. R. Bradley. The Reverend gentleman remained over until Monday before returning home and though somewhat indisposed the visit was mutually enjoyable to the two old men. He is eight years younger than Dr. Bradley, who naturally feels all the usual solicitude of the "elder brother" for his "kid brother."

Thursday night of last week the volunteer fire company, at their weekly drill practice, tried out their recent purchase of 200-feet of new hose. Their equipment is greatly improved by this addition, but Fire Chief L. A. Friends of Mrs. Isaac Wilson will be glad to hear that she is improving in health since she left last week for a Temple hospital. Her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Rath, accompanied her and remained with her in Temple for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Marks were here Thursday, sightseeing in Hondo. Isidore, who was a former citizen of Hondo and still loves the old town, didn't say so, but we formed the impression that he came over to get a breath of air uncontaminated by the political smells of an incorporated town.

Dr. B. R. Bradley is happy to learn that his son-in-law, Mr. L. L. Dorsey, has been transferred from New York back to Dallas after December 1st. Mrs. Dorsey is remembered by Hondo people as Miss Bradley; and like all true, loyal Texans, she and her husband are happy to come back to the land of "winter sunshine."

Mrs. Stewart Clendennin and little daughter, Betty Ann, who spent several days here with her parents, Judge and Mrs. D. H. Fly, while Rev. Clendennin was at conference, left Monday for Houston. She will join Rev. Clendennin there where he has been placed in charge of Grace Church, one of the largest Methodist churches in Houston, with a membership of about 1200.

A letter from Rev. A. H. Falkenberg from Moulton, Texas, among other things says: "I will preach my first sermon in Castroville on Sunday, November 21st, at 10:30 in the morning. On Sunday, Nov. 28th, I will be installed in the Zion's Lutheran Church of Castroville by my dear brother, Rev. M. A. Falkenberg, of San Antonio, Texas. On Sunday, Dec. 5th, we will celebrate our annual Mission festival in the Castroville Lutheran Church. The pastor will conduct the services. I expect to arrive in Castroville next week Wednesday or Thursday." The paper joins in welcoming Rev. Falkenberg to his new station and wishes him success and happiness in his great work.

QUIHI NOTES.

I will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed. Gen. 26:4.

Isaac is on the go; the famine at his heels, Egypt ahead of him, a fata morgana, an imaginary elysium, beckoning with thousand arms. The Lord discountenances and countermands his move for sound reasons. 'Tis true, thousands may leave their home country and that country is none the worse for it, the new habitat and locality becoming a kind of dumping ground for trash. Others have justifiable reasons, many more cannot leave without a seared conscience, battered traditions and disgraced loyalty, even when calamities seem to undermine their very existence. The mother at the bed-side of a child with a deadly contagious disease, the soldier abiding by his cannon in the face of an onrushing enemy, the captain clinging to his sinking vessel, the engineer holding on to the trolley in the roar of a derailment, the general at the head of his regiment making last and apparently futile charge, the ruler surrendering his sword and, though flight were possible, marching into exile and captivity with his vanquished army—such flowers of devotion and loyalty may not bloom in every garden, less so where the owner cultivates the more practical vegetables of competition for gain, superiority, self-glory, immediate power and advancement, and does not care to wait a long stretch till the "flower of glory" is handed him at his coffin. Where ulterior, distant issues are at stake, grave and momentous, and inseparably connected with the home country, personal participation and common sacrifice, then emigration becomes ignoble flight and desertion. This lesson the Lord is trying to impress upon Isaac. It's more than merely stay firmly rooted and keep from sour introspective brooding, bearing manfully what seems inevitable; it's more than showing flexibility and adaptability to new conditions, and lending a hand for restoration and reconstruction at the turn of the tide; it's more than a proud defiance in the midst of adversities or the optimistic prospect that the vanquished often gain a new lease for healthy progress, whereas the victors suffocate ever so often in the corrupting spell of spoils or, to repeat the hackneyed phrase, that all things come to him who waits. More than all that, the Lord has a definite program. This land, Canaan, not Egypt, has been promised to your father, now to you, and from this center and focus the blessing of salvation shall radiate into the whole world. Not otherwise. By the same definite program and plan Christ was bound to the same country, for better or worse. He could have lived twice his age, He could have escaped the murderous plot, He could have carried on His activity and the world beyond Judea would have welcomed Him. The Father's plan held Him there, and that's the moral justification of His stay, of His premature death. Be faithful to your calling, everywhere, under any conditions. True?

Somewhat small, but yet 14 members were at the last Ladies Aid meet. Often it's a question of conveyance, with the men extremely busy somewhere. The religious background was there, of course, in hymns and prayer and scripture lesson. Missions were remembered, new hangings for the lectern were ordered, a sunshine box for the benefit of the San Antonio sanitarium found willing hearts, a reading and discourse on the same institution was had, and the luncheon, as fine as ever, served by the Mesdames O. Lindeburg, F. F. Mumme, E. H. Hartmann, was enjoyed—something to do and foster for everyone. More members, still greater attendance, what's keeping you?

Three visits at one go at the hospital, and we found Mrs. Jacob Breiten much improved; Mrs. Wesley DeGrodt in joy and happiness with a new-born baby boy all her own (a few others demand a share, quite surely); and Mrs. W. Hartmann getting ready for a major operation, calm and trustful. The Lord's blessing hand visible in every instance, and we need it evermore.

For belated news we also mention that Mrs. Alvin Balzen is fast recovering from a recent operation. Miss Esther Neumann we found doing her share there to speed that recovery.

And another piece of belated news: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Saathoff glided away without much ado for Arizona, the Mecca of quite a number of Medina county folks. May they always find blue skies there.

Announcements for November the 14th: English service at 10:30; Sunday school at 9:30; German service at New Fountain at 2; Luther League program at 7 P. M. What must we say to make our invitation impressive and heedful?

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Newcom and Mr. and Mrs. August Finger went to Temple Sunday to visit their mother, Mrs. Isaac Wilson. They were accompanied home by Mrs. R. C. Rath, who had been with her mother for several days. Mrs. Finger remained in that city to be with Mrs. Wilson.

TEXAS SUNSETS.

Rose pink . . . hyacinth blue . . . and violet—
Golden galleons in the lyric west . . .
What charm hath sonnet or triolet,
As long as sunsets adorn the west?
—Frances Coffin Boaz, Ft. Worth.

TRANSFIGURATION.

Day is a realist,
Night, a romanticist.

Consider anything you wish—
A faded stack of straw,
A tumble-down barn—
Under the pitiless light of noon,
They stand naked and ashamed:
But at night,
The straw-stack becomes a hillock of silver,
And the old barn is a blur of softened gray;
Beyond its sagging doors are shadows, rustlings—mysteries.

By day, we see the bodies of things;
At night, their souls.
—Boyce House, Fort Worth, Texas.

THE TEACHER.

It is not mine—
The joy to dig in the moist brown earth!
To place within her warm breast tiny seeds:
To watch them grow through
Long sunny days
Into beautiful flowers!

Yet, here,
Within these four walls
I, too, sow tiny seeds
In the mind of a Child
Which is God's own garden.
—Lillian R. Dely, Choctaw, Okla.

A MOTHER.

Like a strain of music
At the close of day,
Like a summer sunset,
Splendor in each ray,
Is a tender mother—
Is her watchful care;
Love so kind, unselfish,
Is not found elsewhere.
—Erma S. McMahan, Beeville, Tex.

"Fresh vegetables are necessary to the good health of a family," so stated Miss Nell Foley, County Home Demonstration Agent, in talking to the Maverick 4-H Club which met at the school building on November 4, 1937. "Home grown vegetables have more food value than do those that have to be bought due to their being fresh when used," she said.

After Miss Foley finished telling us about the garden the secretary-treasurer, Esther Steubing, gave a report on the cake, candy and pot plant that we raffled at the P. T. A. meeting on Nov. 3. We made a total amount of $7.00.

The members present were: Fay Schuchart, Esther Steubing, Chloris Belzung, Madelyn Steubing, and Lavern Belzung.

We had a visitor, Mrs. A. N. Mangold. The club adjourned to meet on November 18 with our sponsor at the school building.

"Simmins," confided Davenport, "I am not what I seem. You have taken me for a humble garage mechanic, one who rolls mud wheels and greases; one who sits on a stool and looks at the light up-overs of automobiles; a common story of Simmins; a common story of Simmins. You have been mistaken."

Larry glanced sideways and caught the round-eyed, eager expression of Simmins' face. He turned aside as though to hide his emotion.

"You tell him," he asked Burton in a choking voice. "It is more seemly that he hear the truth from other lips than mine."

Burton cast a look of contempt for Larry's weakness.

"This is Mr. Lawrence Davenport," he agreed, "nor any other servant. Simmins is as honest as the average when he hasn't been gambling and can get his share of cigars and booze. But that pocketbook contains nothing but papers; and they can all be replaced. There's nothing there to interest Simmins."

Burton and Larry exchanged a glance. It was almost too good to be true.

After ten minutes Simmins glided unobtrusively into the firelight and hung the coat again on the stub.

"Here," Grimstead commanded at once, "bring me that pocketbook out of the inside pocket."

A bolt from heaven could not have crumpled Simmins interior economy as did that order. For a moment his limbs refused to work; but at last, after some fumbling, he succeeded in extracting the pocketbook and bringing it to his master. Contrary to expectation, Grimstead did not open it. He examined Simmins curiously.

"You're trembling like a leaf," he said. "What's the matter with you?"

Simmins muttered something about its being chilly by the stream.

"Well, get up to the fire!" commanded Grimstead impatiently. He looked at the pocketbook in his hands as though perplexed.

"I'll lose that confounded thing yet," he grumbled. "It's too long for that pocket, and some day when I stoop over it's going to fall out plunk into the stream. Simmins, bring me my small leather kit bag."

He opened the kit bag, burrowed down to the bottom, and tucked the bill book beneath a flap.

"There! She'll stick safe enough there until we go. Take it back, Simmins."

"Yes, sir," said Simmins, "and if there is nothing more, sir, I ask permission to return to my camp to turn in."

"Well, take a drink before you go," offered Grimstead. "Your teeth are chattering."

Simmins gratefully swallowed the whisky—which, however, Grimstead prepared—returned the key and disappeared.

Larry arose to his feet.

"Poor old Simmins," he laughed. "The strenuous life seems too much for him. I think I'll just step down to the car and see whether he remembered to attend to the lubrication. Come along, Burton? Fine moon coming up shortly."

She arose with an alacrity that made Grimstead laugh. Gardner, too, stirred.

"Sit still, Ross," said Grimstead; "don't you know better than to act gooseberry?"

Gardner looked his inquiry.

"Hang the engine," Grimstead told him in low tones aside. "Stay here."

The two young people hastened down

CHAPTER XI

The campaign of dissembling went off with a bang. Grimstead's hostility melted easily. The engagement finished him. It was sudden, but Grimstead was himself accustomed to doing things suddenly. In fact things went so well that Burton and Larry could not forbear exchanging a glance of congratulation.

Gardner, as usual, stayed unobtrusively in the background. The loss of his chance with Burton. It must be confessed, affected him very little. He would have married that young lady, had the cards happened to fall that way, and would have been proud of her as an adequate head of his household, and fond of her as an attractive woman; but his real satisfaction with the arrangement would have sprung from his added business opportunities. Now that the latter seemed to be in his hands anyway, he was rather relieved than otherwise that they had come without feminine complications. Indeed, he went even further, and reflected with satisfaction on what he had seen of Burton. This puppy, Davenport, didn't know yet what he was up against. Little wildcat!

Supper passed jovially enough. The camp fire was lighted. Then Grimstead caused the hearts of three of the party to skip a beat.

"Simmins," he commanded, "when you get through those dishes I'll give you my coat to clean up a little; it's got an awfully fishy smell about it."

As he spoke he took off the garment and hung it on a stub, replacing it with a sweater. He removed nothing from the pockets, and all three of the conspirators could distinctly make out a corner of the bill fold showing from the inside pocket.

Simmins picked up the coat, and with it started toward the creek.

"Hey, Simmins!" called Grimstead after him. "Where you going? I don't want that thing washed!"

"No, sir; of course not, sir. Merely a trifle of sponging, fresh running water, you know, sir," stammered Simmins at a loss.

"Well, go ahead. But there's some things in the pockets; look out you don't lose them."

"Never fear, sir; I'll take the best of care," chattered Simmins, beating a hasty retreat.

"You're not afraid to trust him with a pocketbook?" Larry ventured to suggest.

Grimstead laughed.

"I wouldn't trust him with my roll," he agreed, "nor any other servant. Simmins is as honest as the average when he hasn't been gambling and can get his share of cigars and booze. But that pocketbook contains nothing but papers; and they can all be replaced. There's nothing there to interest Simmins."

the meadow. Simmins was waiting for them.

"Here, sir; here it is," he burst out, thrusting a paper into Larry's hands. "I never was in such a funk in my life! If he had suspected me of rifling his pocketbook he would have killed me on the spot, I do believe. And what is to happen when he discovers his loss, sir, I cannot for the life of me imagine."

"Nothing. Don't worry. If he finds it out, I will take the blame. And you have acted very nobly in this matter, Simmins. Neither Miss Burton nor myself will ever forget it."

"Indeed we shall not, Simmins," added Burton; "you are a true knight!"

Simmins retired, his heart glowing. As the moments had passed and still no explosion had come from the main camp, he had lost little by little his deadly fear.

The two young people made their way to the bank of the little stream, where they would be screened from the camp. There Larry lighted a match and cast a hasty glance of inspection at the document.

"It's all right," he assured Burton relievedly. "This is it! Blessed be Simmins!"

He tore it into small pieces and cast them into the current.

BADER-SCHOTT.

One of the loveliest of early fall weddings was that of Miss Lorene Minnie Schott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schott of Helotes, and Elmer S. Bader, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bader of Dunlay, which took place on Tuesday morning, Nov. 9, in St. Stanislaus Church in Bandera, with Rev. F. Strobel officiating at the nuptial mass.

On the main and side altars were white and orchid chrysanthemums and green fern. The ends of the pews were marked with bows of white tulle and satin ribbon.

Miss Mae Rue sang "Ave Maria" during the Offertory, and Miss Elsie Adamietz played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the processional, and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional.

The bride, who was escorted by her father to the sanctuary, where she was met by the groom and his best man, Rudolph Schott, wore a lovely fitted gown of white cut velvet made with a standing collar and buttoned down the back to the waist. The skirt flared in a short train. Her long tulle veil was edged with Chantilly lace and overlaid at the end. It was caught to a cap of the same lace which was embroidered with seed pearls. She carried calla lilies tied with a large bow of white satin and maine ribbon. She wore a pearl clip ornament.

The bride's attendants, who had preceded her in the church, wore gowns of taffeta made along princess lines with short trains, in glowing fall colors. They were: Miss Thresa Tschirhart, junior bridesmaid, in leaf green; bridesmaids, Misses Edna Tschirhart in gold, Clara Schott in wine, and Alma Bader in rust. Little Miss Etta Dell Tschirhart was flower girl and wore open blue taffeta in similar style, with Master "Sonny" Schott carrying the ring on a white satin pillow. Mrs. Howard Schott, matron of honor, wore royal blue. They wore silver sandals, and on their heads were silver wreaths. They carried shower bouquets of large white chrysanthemums, and the flower girl carried a small bouquet of white pom-pom chrysanthemums.

Ushers were Lee Tschirhart and Clyde Bader. Serving as groomsmen were Matt Bader and Roland Tschirhart.

The bride's mother wore aqua green crepe. The groom's mother wore dark green crepe.

An out-of-door barbecue was served buffet style with salad, pies, cakes and beer. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. About 100 or more guests were present. A dance was given at Helotes Hall, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Music was furnished by the San Geronimo Owls. The bridal pair spent the remainder of the night with the bride's parents, and left the next morning for Monterrey and Mexico City. The bride wore an ensemble of brown crepe and satin, with black accessories.

H. H. Norton
Head Football Coach

This is the fifth in a series of nine outstanding diagram plays by nine leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's Cities Service Football Guide.

WE have used so many forward passes and have been up against so many teams that pass that we decided to use a fake pass. We used it in most of our games with good results. We found that after throwing a few passes the average team was open for this fake pass and the result was that it was always good for a few yards. The features of this play are that our right and left half backs go deep down the field, as though they were to receive a pass, then the full back crosses over center and blocks out the defensive center and the quarter back takes the ball through the same opening. We try to make this look as much like a pass play as possible. We have made several good gains and some first downs with it against our most formidable opponents. With a good passing combination any team can use it with equally good results.

D'HANIS 4-H CLUB PLANS GARDEN.

"Each cooperator should have 200 ft. of vegetables for every member of the family to reach her goal," said Miss Nell Foley, County Home Demonstration Agent at the D'Hanis 4-H club meeting on Monday afternoon, Nov. 8. is steadily rising and that administrative expenses can and will be cut down.

On the basis of the Board of Control's latest announcement, the additional revenue, provided in the tax bill passed by the Senate at the special session, would certainly have guaranteed adequate old age assistance for a long time to come, besides taking care of the needy blind and others to be benefitted by the social security program.

The announcement knocks the props out of any argument that the free conference committee bill, which could not be considered because a majority of the House conferees refused to sign it, would have provided too meagerly for the needy aged. It will be recalled that this bill provided funds to pay off the $1,627,000 debt to banks, besides providing for additional permanent revenue for the assistance fund. The mere payment of the debt, it now seems, would have left the assistance fund in excellent condition. The Board of Control has reversed it. If within less than thirty days and the governor's unqualified declarations have been proved erroneous within less than twenty days. Yet, the Board is supposed to be a non-political administrative Board; and no one has condemned more strongly than the governor the practice of playing upon the hopes and fears of the needy aged for political purposes.—The Austin Times.

WHICH 'SPOKE' ARE YOU?

In the intricate pattern of God's "Wheel of Life" Each of us play a part, Some are the leaders of all things worthwhile And evade all things wrong from the start. While some rule by force and leave in their wake Like the wind and the storm at sea; To float and drift on dangerous reefs Broken fragments of humanity.

But those who by Charity, Love and Good Deeds Bring sunshine through dark clouds of rain, To the aged, the weary, the frail and the weak Whose lives seem one long day of pain; To these will our Maker say as they meet On that Heavenly shore some day, Take your place with the angels to abide evermore Your work has not been in vain.

—M. E. MORSE.

CITIES.

I love the hum of city voices, The clang of steel upon the street; The grinding wheels, the roaring motors, And consant tramp of countless feet.

Anon I walk among the dwellings And lowly bow my weary head, While thinking of another city, The silent city of the dead.

—ALEXANDER H. LIESKE.

SMILE SHADOWS AWAY.

When shadows waver round your door, And phantom-like dance on your floor, Just vision days when all was bright And know that soon things will be right.

When fortune turns on you and frowns, When gossip turns on you her frowns, Just smile and say, there'll come a day When all these hurts shall pass away.

Your Heavenly Father understands, And holds your blessings in His hands. Though adverse shades around you stray, Just bravely smile at shadows.

The rose of dawn precedes the night, Then keep Hope's candle, burning bright. Let not the little squalls dismay, But smile the shadows, all away!

—JESSICA MOREHEAD YOUNG.

WITH OCTOBER WINDS.

With October winds I love to sit and sigh Remembering only this: The first marital kiss— And remembering—alone I sit and cry!

With October winds I love to dwell in thought; To think of other years— Then dry away my tears, Bitter tears that a broken life has brought!

With October winds I love to dream and plan; To dream of better days And plan for better ways That I might give my life for God—not man!
